

DO NOT allow banks to get around the phone privacy rules in Indiana. I have had medical problems that forced me to make payment arrangements with a bank I did business with for 30 years. Even as a client, I receive up to 12 calls in a 12 hour period because an arrangement "doesn't stop the calls". If they can misuse their power

WITH a client...what will they do on solicitations? I will disconnect my phone if this is allowed. Banks are the worst offenders both on phone and email. On my email, Key Bank even said someone had attempted to enter my account. When I called, they said it was a third party sales attempt for bank business. How can this be honest? False alarming and solicitation to private homes is wrong.
